History

The museum was established on 19 March 1999.[1]

Architecture

The museum building spans over 10,192 m^2 with 4,000 m^2 of exhibition area. The Museum is a five-storey building with different types of exhibition areas: spaces for Chinese traditional art are located on the 4th floor; the collections of MAM are displayed on the 3rd floor; a large special gallery is on the 2nd floor.

Exhibitions

- Determined Spirit – Calligraphy and Painting of Fu Shen[2]

Facilities

There is a well-equipped auditorium of a hundred seats. Furthermore, there is a Museum Shop that offers catalogues for sale which are published by the MAM. A franchised counter of the Shanghai Museum is also available at the Museum Shop. The Palace Museum Cultural and Creative Store next door, being the first branch store outside the Palace Museum, provides various kinds of selected products as well.
